

I'm writing regarding Sinclair Corporation's effort to force their affiliates to run a politically partisan program called "Stolen Honor" that is nothing more than a effort to smear Senator John Kerry's reputation just 2 weeks before our national elections. The fact that the FCC has not stepped in to make some kind of difference so that large corporations can't do this kind thing disappoints me tremendously. America is supposed to be a democracy, and we can't be one if we're only allowed to hear the points of view of only a certain powerful minority that tries to control what we know. I encourage you to help change the system so that you are not part of the problem, but rather part of the solution.

Thank you.
